

TWO HELD FOR ANGELUS ROBBERY

Night Clerk Price and T. R. Warnock Charged With Looting Hotel Safe.

Informations charging J. W. Price, who until arrested, was night clerk at the Angelus hotel, with embezzlement, and T. R. Warnock with theft over $50, as a result of the robbery of the hotel office and safe on the morning of Jan. 5, were filed with justice H. E. Stacy, Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Price has lived in El Paso for two years. His former home was at Rockdale, Milam county, Tex. Warnock states he is a traveling mechanic.

As a result of the arrest of the men, $583 and a diamond ring worth $75 were recovered. The total value of the money and jewels taken from the office safe and cash drawer is given at $652.31.

Price was arrested Monday morning and taken to the police station, where he was searched. In his right shoe was found an Angelus hotel grip check, No. 15. The grip was brought to the police station and found to contain $503. Price had $30 in his pockets. In the grip were several pieces of laundry bearing Warnock's name and he was located at the New York rooms on Broadway, where he was arrested Tuesday morning.

Price's confession was made late Monday and Warnock made his statement Tuesday. Detectives kept not talk about the case. Assistant chief Ten Eyck was evidently kept in ignorance of developments, for he told a Herald man who inquired about the case Tuesday afternoon that he (Ten Eyck) didn't know anything about it. Monday it was said that two men were being investigated but that no arrests had been made.

Monday night Price's name was registered on the police blotter and a charge of "suspicious character" written after it. Tuesday morning, following Price's arrest, Warnock was arrested and a suspicious character charge also preferred.

Price's Statement.

According to Price's statement, he and Warnock agreed to rob the hotel office, and after talking several times, they did the work the morning of January 5. Price, who was in charge of the hotel as night clerk, sent the waiter boy, Moise Barracuda, upstairs to see about some lights which were burning. This was about 2:30 a. m. While the boy was upstairs, Price carried the deposit boxes from the safe in the suit case to Warnock, who had concealed himself behind the double doors leading from the hotel lobby to the foyer of the Crawford theater.

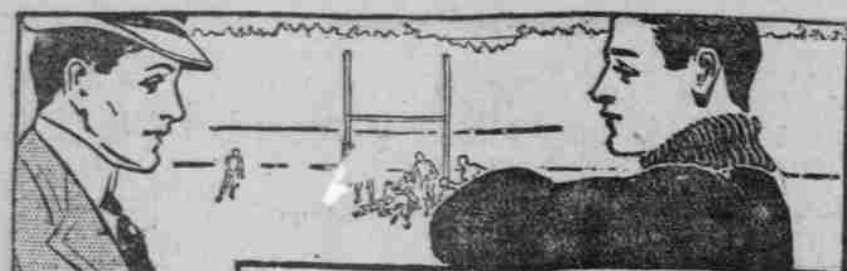

In the meantime, however, Warnock had effected an entrance into the Crawford theater and took the deposit boxes into the women's cloak room, which is directly on the right of the entrance. There the men opened the boxes with a pair of shears and after which Warnock took the boxes to a dressing room under the Crawford theater stage, where an automatic revolver belonging to Dr. Richmond, and two stick pins belonging to C. E. Knoblauch of the hotel were also left.

Returning to the hotel office at 5 o'clock after opening the boxes, it is said that Price sent the elevator boy to the basement to clean some corridors, and securing the hotel office revolver placed it on the ice box at the side of the elevator. Warnock having returned by this time, took the revolver, according to Price's story, and "held up" Price, forcing him into the basement, where he also covered the elevator boy with the revolver.

After a few seconds, while the upstairs make believe robber was supposed to be making away with the deposit boxes, Warnock withdrew from the basement of the hotel and left the revolver on the ice box, where he had found it, and took the money taken from the deposit boxes which had been left just outside the office door.

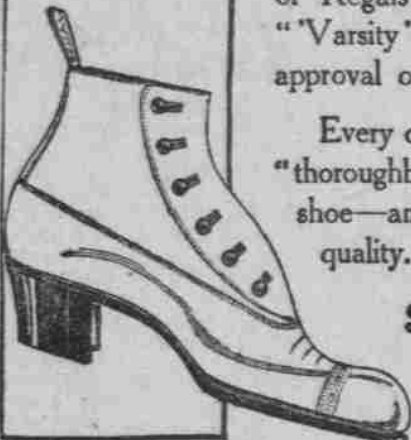

Price and the elevator boy, after staying in the basement a few minutes, "escaped" by the basement door, and Price entering the hotel office at the south door, secured the revolver and fired a shot, then telephoned to the police. When they arrived, Price assisted in the search for the supposed two robbers, who he said held him up. Price remained on duty until 8 o'clock that morning, after which he ate breakfast and went to his room.

Warnock, according to his story, took the money secured from the safe deposit boxes, in a grip to his room on Broadway. There he says he took $175, and later sent the grip to a house on Magoffin avenue, where it is said Price would get it. Later, Warnock

PORTUGAL STRIKE

Clerks in Stores Also Go Out and Tie Up Business Affairs.

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 11.—A majority of the railroad employees in Portugal struck today. The government has long been warned of the movement, and took active measures to maintain service and with partial success.

Following the example of the railway men, employees of business houses quit work on the ground that the government had failed to issue a decree fixing the limit of a day's work at 12 hours and providing one day's rest in seven. As a result many business houses are closed.

Ed Kennedy, who came here to promote a new railroad line from Roswell to El Paso, left Tuesday evening after a conference with the chamber of commerce officials at which it was decided not to urge the bonus proposition of Mr. Kennedy until the Kansas City Short line had been given time to finance its project. Before leaving Mr. Kennedy met delegates C. A. Stipple and W. M. Dougherty, of Artesia, and H. M. Gage, of Hope, N. M., who were to have conferred with him regarding the extension of the Altus, Lubbock and Roswell road to these two towns in the Pecos valley, but decided to wait 60 days until the El Paso end is completed.

MANY MEXICANS

Mr. Charney declined to make any statement regarding the condition in the south.

W. B. Rose, foreman of a camp on the divide about 50 kilometers south of Pearson, also was a passenger on Tuesday's train. Returning to Pearson he met 30 insurgents, who allowed him to pass, at a point but a short distance south of Pearson, and later saw about 50 soldiers and 25 rurales marching south. It is reported that the operations on the tunnels between Madera and Pearson have been seriously delayed by the lack of labor, and that there is continual skirmishing about Madera.

Matus Quits Office.

Some mystery surrounds the removal of Francisco Matus from Casas Grandes. Guillermo Porras, secretary of the state of Chihuahua, with Donaciano Mapula, a state congressman, departed Monday from Ciudad Juarez for Casas Grandes. On the same train went 13 armed men, believed at the time to be an escort for the officials.

On Tuesday's train from Casas Grandes Matus arrived, but the secretary of state and Mapula, reported to be the successor of Matus, did not return. With Matus came the 13 armed men, said to be rurales. The former jefe politico of Casas Grandes did not come to El Paso Tuesday night, but remained in Ciudad Juarez. It is given out officially that Matus has resigned on account of ill health.
